

Dual Export Connector

Dual Export Connector

Export a single batch to two distinct destinations with a single click

With this CaptureBites™ connector you can export a single batch to two separate destinations. One destination could export to email in super compressed PDF for mail distribution while another destination could export in original TIFF format for archival.

The setup is straightforward. Just select any of your available export connectors in the first destination and another or the same export connector (with other settings for example) in the other destination.

Setup

When a batch of documents is exported, both export processes will be executed with their specific settings.

If you want to export to more than two destinations and also define which pages need to be exported per export destination, we recommend using the CaptureBites Multi Export Connector.
